A.L.A.R.M. Series
Administrative Liability and Risk Management

Chief Concerns
Pre-Event Planning for Police Litigation Defense

This one-day program is designed for police managers and supervisors, and will provide in-depth information concerning contemporary police litigation strategies today. Special emphasis will be placed on issues related to resistance control, entry of structures, force modeling/continuums, training, supervision, early warning systems, pre-incident contingency planning, and interacting with persons affected by mental illness and other disabilities.

Instructor—Major Steve Ijames
Steve Ijames has been a police officer for over 30 years, and recently retired as assistant chief of police in Springfield, Missouri. He was an original member of the National Tactical Officers Association board of directors, and the founder of his agency’s full time tactical team. In that role he participated in, supervised, or commanded the service of approximately 3,000 search warrants, and the resolution of over 150 barricaded subjects and seven hostage taking situations.

Ijames created the less lethal force instructor/trainer programs for the International Association of Chiefs of Police and National Tactical Officers Association. He has provided use of force training on behalf of the IACP and the U. S. Department of State across the United States, Canada, and in 33 countries. He has served on a variety of resistance control investigative commissions, most recently in New York City and Boston, and has reviewed over 2,000 police use of force cases for agencies across the United States, Canada, and abroad.
